Judo Rank Promotion System

The Official National Manual of the United States Judo Association

(Revised December 22, 2020)

Table 3

Earning Promotion Points for all Juniors, Senior Kyu's & Senior Dan's

Important Note: In order to accrue points for promotion through the USJA, an individual's USJA membership must be current at the time the points were earned. If there has been a lapse in membership or Life Member's SLM, any points earned during that time cannot be counted for promotion. If back dues are paid you will receive TIG but not promotion points to that period.

COMPETITION

USJA players can earn promotion points for competition in Shiai (individual or team) or Kata (form competition). The individual and team competition must involve competitors from at least two clubs. Contests within your own club do not qualify for earning promotion points. No points are awarded for winning by hansoku-make (disqualification), kiken-gachi (withdrawal), and fusen-gachi (default), as no skill was required by the winner to earn such a win. Uncontested divisions are not eligible for points. Documentation must be included to verify points including the name & date of the event, event host/director, and the name of competitor. Non-documented events will not be considered.

Requirements

This is a notice to the student as well as the instructor. All promotions are important because they build on each other. Trying to skip a rank can lead to considerable difficulty catching up. The founder of Judo was once asked what is most important and he said, "Never miss class". Your time in grade (TIG) is a measure of your active time in Judo not measured by days, months or even years only on the calendar. Your points are a measure of your achievements, competition and service to Judo and the USJA. You must keep a record of your Judo activity. The USJA Judo Activity Log is very useful in keeping your Judo records current. If you try and remember years after your last promotion what you did when and where, you will not only forget, you may lose the points you deserve.

Once a student has met the age requirement, accumulated the required number of points, has sufficient time-in-grade, has attended the required number of classes and/or is competitive with players in the next higher grade, and has displayed good overall conduct and dedication to the sport, he/she may be considered eligible for promotion.
